Product description:

A durable bench crafted from recycled beverage cartons. Remake Bench is made from recycled beverage cartons in a special process that allows for a mix of materials, such as paper, plastic and aluminium, which can be recycled again and again. The material is a low-carbon, fully circular and excellent alternative to traditional furniture materials and thus a sustainable choice.

The strong, stable and versatile bench aligns with the principles of the circular economy and helps reduce the amount of waste generated in the furniture industry. Using the same screws, tools, methods and skills as wood, the stool has strong joints and a surface treatment suitable for any environment.

Among its many sustainable properties, the product reduces CO2 emissions and is fully recycled and recyclable. It contains no additives, VOCs or formaldehyde. The production generates no waste, uses no water and has zero emissions.

Designer's thoughts:

'It was interesting to work with a brand new type of material, which is completely directionless. The fact that the material has the same expression in large surfaces and edges lends the stool an almost monolithic expression. Just like wood, the material makes each stool unique, because it has a varied appearance from batch to batch.' "The oversized crossbar with large perforations highlights the construction of the bench and the recomma sheets." - Jonas Herman, Herman Studio
